What's New In?

ZD Soft Screen Recorder is a free screen recording software with a user-friendly interface and is capable of capturing screenshots in various ways. You can select to create a screen demo (cursor tracking, partial screen, full screen). But you can also capture media video (web streaming, media player, other), record game play or share your screen. So, you can plug in a microphone if you want to narrate your actions, capture from line, resize the view box and place it anywhere on the screen, as well as use keyboard shortcuts to initiate the recording process. In addition, you can set the output file name and directory, open the output destination, configure video settings (e.g. uncompressed video, width, height, frame rate, video codec, debug, rate factor, command lines) and audio options (e.g. uncompressed audio, codec, bitrate, encoding quality, channels). Moreover, you can configure the hotkeys, enable sticky view selection box, add a mouse click effect, show indicator and frame rate in game, hide the balloon message, and more. The program uses a surprisingly low amount of system resources and didn't cause us any problems during our tests. However, there is no help file available, the image quality in the output files is not so great (in some cases, half of the recorded footage was completely distorted) and the overall video doesn't run smoothly. So, if you want to try a software for recording activity on your computer, then we suggest ZD Soft Screen Recorder.
