Muhammad Chaudhry PDF e-Book. PDF e-Book is a best selling in the society which includes various features, contents. to the end and massaging the shoulder while squeezing the arm backwards and pulling the foot out and then back in. I also do it when the kid is lying down or sitting up. I've also started talking to them about why we do it, what it helps with, how it makes them feel (i.e. "it makes you feel very good to rub your shoulder, to ease your tension"), and most importantly, when they can do it. My daughter makes the sound when she does this and my two have always done it without being told. I know about the "3-2-1" for my son. It's a big part of his "kindergarten" program. There's many videos out there you can watch to hear the kids make the sound. I don't think anyone else makes it unless he invites them to. I would love to have the video of your son's dance. ? What a fun birthday video! My one daughter does the 3-2-1. We call it the "touch therapy" and it helps her so much when her father sometimes neglects to hold her. We also call the 3-2-1 the “knee slappies”! When my daughter is really frustrated or is aggravated at something, she will run into the space behind our big screen TV and come back and give my husband’s knee (he is wearing shorts) a little smacked! She makes this sound so happy, like she is just so overjoyed! And they’re both also really good at giving each other a “uh oh” look! When my daughter was in elementary school, a new teacher had taken over her class
