* _Photoshop Elements 2.0_ Adobe's Photoshop competitor. As of this writing, it is still a part of the Adobe Suite.

_Photoshop Elements 2.0_ is an all-around digital image editing tool. The program is completely free. It's available in both a basic edition and a photo edition. Most of the functionality of Photoshop is available in both editions; you just get a different set of options for each of the editions. ## Managing Layers A _layer_ is a tool in your image that acts as an independent image. A layer can be anything that you place on top of an image, from an image of a table to a print of your image to a light box overlay. When you overlay an image on top of another one, you create a _layer mask_, or a piece of paper that covers the image below. You can add text, change the color of the image, or do any number of things to a layer without affecting the underlying layer. Figure 2-1 shows the new layer overlay. To manipulate a layer, double-click on the layer icon in the Layers panel. The layers beneath your layer appear, and you can adjust or paint on the new layer, as shown in Figure 2-2. FIGURE 2-1: You can add text to any layer. FIGURE 2-2: Double-clicking a layer opens the layer so that you can paint or make other changes. Figure 2-3 illustrates a stacked set of layers. Each layer has a unique name and different fill colors. FIGURE 2-3: Each layer has a unique name and a different fill color. ## Adding or Removing Layers To add a new layer, click the arrow next to the word New in the Layers panel and choose either Overlay or Insert from the pop-up menu. In this example, we chose Overlay. See Figure 2-4. FIGURE 2-4: The layer is positioned below the layer that you're modifying. To remove a layer, select it in the Layers panel and click the trash can symbol (shown in the margin). Your layer is gone from your image, but it may be possible to retrieve it later. Q: deleting last few rows of data in CSV, sorted alphabetically I am trying to delete the last few rows of data in a csv file, so as to make it smaller without losing data. I am using the code below: `import csv with open('data_1.csv', 'rb') as data_file: reader = csv.reader(data_file, delimiter=',') reader.truncate(-5) with open("data_new.csv", 'w') as data_file_new: writer = csv.writer(data_file_new) writer.writerows(reader)` My data csv file is also sorted alphabetically. I expect that the last 5 rows of the file will be deleted. But the output csv file has 5 rows of data remain in it instead of only 5 rows. I have also tried using `del` (to delete the last five elements) and that didn't work. Why is it? How can I solve it? A: When you open the file "with `open('data_1.csv', 'rb')` as `data_file`": You are opening the file with read mode, this means that the mode is read the file line by line, so the last line will be the last in the file. To open the file in append mode to create a new file, change the line as following: `open('data_1.csv', 'a')` Please check the documentation about mode to get the difference between these two modes.
