It provides several options like a digital camera, camera lense or a camera flash that can be used to take the picture. One of the major development that was done in Photoshop during the last few years is the introduction of context aware tools, which apply special filters based on the context of the image. For example, there is a lot of interest in images of dogs for purposes such as studding, pet reservation, wedding photography. It is much easier to apply pet filters to a dog image, automatically, than identifying and placing the eye of the animal in an image. Context Aware Type and Content Aware Layers—these two tools pave the way toward a new era of creative control over Photoshop and Adobe's site.
